

Productive Aging: Historical Context, Opportunities, and Challenges
Scott A. Bass, Ph.D.

SELECTED READINGS

Bass, S. A. (1994). Productive aging and the role of older people in Japan: New approaches for the United States. New York, NY: Japan Society, Inc.

Campbell, J. C. (1992). How policies change: The Japanese government and the aging society. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press.

Ekerdt, D. J. (2010). Frontiers of research on work and retirement. The Journals of Gerontology, 65B(1), 69-80.

Freedman, M. (2007). Encore: Finding work that matters in the second half of life. New York, NY: Public Affairs.

Morrow-Howell, N., Hinterlong, J., & Sherraden, M. (2001). Productive aging: Concepts and challenges. Baltimore & London: The John Hopkins University Press.

Munnell, A. H., & Perun, P. (2006, August). An update on private pensions. Issue Brief, Center for Retirement Research, Boston College. Retrieved from http://crr.bc.edu/images/stories/Briefs/ib_50.

Zinke, W. K. (2008). Utilizing older workers for competitive advantage: The new human resources frontier. Boulder, CO: Center for Productive Longevity.